Biography

Michael O'Sullivan is an author, economist and investor. He has twenty years' experience in global financial markets, most recently as Chief Investment Officer at Credit Suisse Wealth. He now advises a number of asset management and fintech companies (notably Moonfare). He co-founded a digital wealth manager in the UK (Rosecut) and is a director of Unio Wealth Management in Ireland.

He is a senior adviser at WestExec, and chair of the Jane Goodall Legacy Foundation.

He is the author of 'The Levelling' (PublicAffairs), which outlines what's next in politics, economics, finance and geopolitics in the post globalization era. Recently he has co-authored 'L'Accord du Peuple' (Calmann-Levy) and made the BBC 4 radio documentary Waking up to World Debt and numerous podcasts on this topic.

He is a Forbes contributor, and a speaker at the 2020 TED Talk conference and also at the Stormont TEDx on the topic of restoring democracy. He studied in Cork and received MPhil and DPhil degrees at Balliol College, Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar. He has taught finance and economics at Oxford University and Princeton University.
